

Woodrow Wilson Laid at Rest as Nation Mourns Loss of War Leader

AS CALL OF BUGLE CEASES, HIS WIDOW LEAVES HIM TO GOD

Dr. Grayson, Close Friend and Physician of Ex President for Over Decade, Ends Vigil Only With Closing of Vault

Thousands Disregard Snow

Unmindful of Chill Air and Inclement Weather, They Line Way from House to Chapel—Services Brief, As He Wished

(By the Associated Press)

Washington, Feb. 6.—A bugle, calling softly in the fading day, told that Woodrow Wilson had passed today down "the way of peace" to his earned and honored rest.

It sang the same soldier requiem that once before, at the lips of the same loyal comrade, it sang to lull America's Unknown to his sleep in glory.

And as the bugle called out over the hills that look down on the city, a stricken woman turned away from the entrance to the stone crypt down in the dim chapel, leaving her dead to the mercy of God.

At the end, there still stood beside the vault one stout friend of the dead war leader, a friend who had battled death for him to the bitter end, who had shared in the great days of triumph, the bitter days of disappointment even as now he stood to render the last loyal service. Not until the great slab of stone had been swung back to close the vault did Dr. Grayson end the vigil he has kept with Woodrow Wilson for more than half a score of years.

Woodrow Wilson Makes Last Touching Gift.

Tonight the number casket of black steel lies in the western niche of the "west below" Bethlehem chapel. Above, towering from the balcony, looms the gray mass of the cathedral, below, the lights of the city that has turned back from its day of sorrow to the growing eaves of life under the dark of an overcast night.

It was among these surroundings of a quiet, home loving thinker, the precious memory laden things of home, that old friends were now gathered to pay him last honors. For a little before the service began the casket was opened that a few who knew and loved him best might gaze a moment at the still, pale, worn face into which death had brought at last something almost of the placid look of the years long past. Not all of those who crowded the rooms had this opportunity. It was reserved for intimates, of whatever station in life, mingled in this silent company.

And on the casket, where the great dead lies alone at last for his endless rest, beside the plate that sets forth only his name and the day of his birth and death, there still lies the handful of soft hued blossoms that were the last touching gift of the grief torn widow.

Thousands Disregard Snow and Rain.

Distant rumbling of saluting guns in the cloud darkened dawn ushered in the day when the nation would pay to Woodrow Wilson the simple tribute that he had claimed of it. The busy day of the capital surged on for a few hours before its course was checked in the last moments of silent respect for the dead. But to the door of the stricken home and into the dim chapel where the last rites would be paid poured an endless stream of flowers that banked and overflowed every space with tender beauty. The names of kings and the great of the earth were on these tributes, and the names of loyal, humble, friends and comrades.

As the hour of the double services drew on, thousands took their places along the way from house to chapel to stand long in the chill air, unmoving. The barriers of snow and rain that beat upon them. The wide avenue over which the dead war President would make his last journey was banked with people and kept clear of traffic until he should have passed. Before the house, across the street, a cold bank of people had gathered before the first of those who would join with the family in the home service had arrived. They stood motionless of cold, waiting to bear their heads a moment. Opposite them the guard of honor came to stand in ranks before the house—soldiers, sailors, and marines.

Thousands Filled With Fond Recollections.

Sadly and in groups the little company that could be admitted to the house had passed within. Then Dr. Grayson and Mrs. Coolidge, the former ex First Lady, passed to stand beside the bier of a dead colleague. Those others who had stood shoulder to shoulder with Woodrow Wilson in his days of greatness and those who had been the humble ones who could not be forgotten at such a moment, the faithful friends of the dead.

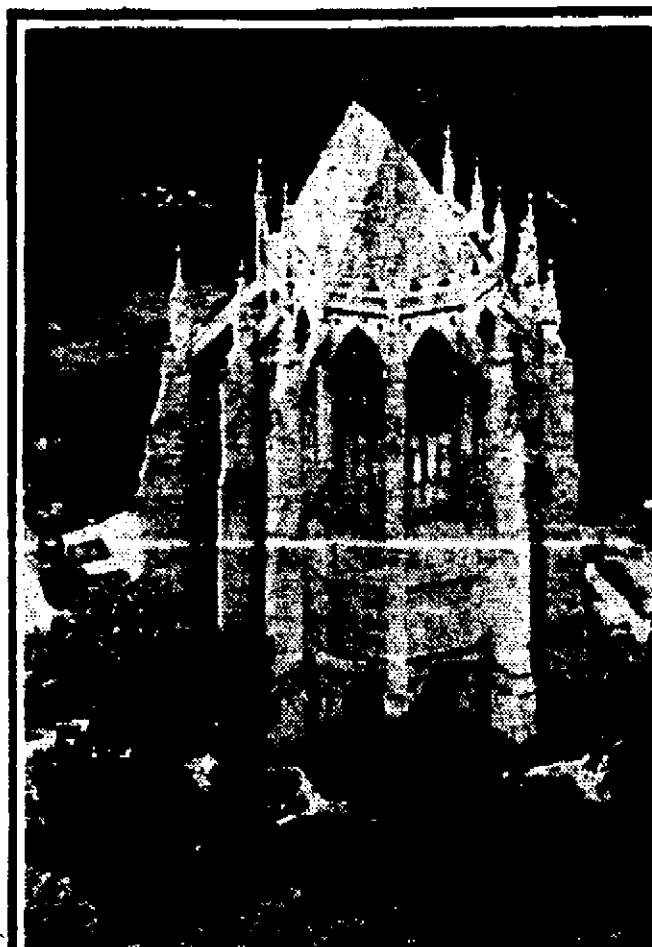

With a, on the second floor of the house flowers were everywhere. They covered the walls and sent their soft fragrance down from every niche and corner. There were three rooms and a short gallery on this floor, the living rooms of the house. White doves had been allowed to make them over so that all who should be present at this minute service in the home parlors the dead man loved might at least bear what was said.

In the study, where a great mural painting of the fireplace stood above the bed where he had slept there to ponder in the warm glow, the old bed had been set on the wall above the old friend of the widow and daughter.

"Now unto Him that is able to keep you from falling, and whom you can trust before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy:

"To the only wise God, our Savior,

Where Woodrow Wilson Was Buried

be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and evermore, Amen."

As the solemn words were spoken, the clock chimed the quarter hour and the simple, home service of Woodrow Wilson, plain American, had been said as he wished it said.

Into the room came eight men from the honor guard, their sun-tanned, youthful faces set in solemn recognition of the dignity and honor of the place that had been given them. They stood soldierly and erect a moment beside the black casket upon which was the white ribbon of the Order of the American Legion.

Wilson's favorite flowers, the flowers her dead husband often had sent her in the glad other days. The soldier, sailor, and marine comrades stooped and raised the Allen chieftain to bear him out for his last journey.

Outside the other men of the guard had double lined the short way across the sidewalk to the waiting hearse. As the house door swung back and the three clergymen stepped out to take their places beside the hearse door, up and down the steep narrow street the multitude, which had waited long for this brief glimpse, uncovered in the chill air. The men of the guard stood at stiff salute, and their comrades bore the casket down through the double rank and lifted it.

End of Probe Not Yet Seen.

With the senate and oil committee both in recess, Mr. Denby's statement was the only concrete development of the day in the oil situation. Debate in the senate will break out afresh tomorrow and the committee will get back to its hearings on Friday.

With new leads developing, apparently unending succession, the end of the senate's inquiry seems to be nowhere in sight. Many witnesses prominent in political and business life, are yet to be examined, and there are telling now how "tidy" others will be called after expert accountants have gone through the books of stock brokerage firms, banks and quasi-business associates in search of transaction in any way related to the oil leases.

Pierce, the chief oil committee member under Sen. Coolidge, has been summoned to appear before the committee.

Pierce, who was taken to Canton today by police officials under Sen. Coolidge, is E. Curtis, of that city, who said by Chief Henry Lamer of the local police force to have admitted that he took Miss Anna Pierce into the country and killed her when she resisted his advances. Pierce's face and hands, the chief said, were badly scratched.

Big Game Hunters Bag Enormous Grizzly Bears and Lordly Moose in the Wilds of British Columbia

British Columbia, according to experienced hunters, is the most treacherous big game country in North America. Grizzlies of enormous size, black and brown bears, moose with 60 and 62 inch "spreads," mule and white-tailed deer, elk, mountain goats and sheep, caribou, timber wolves and mountain lions are numerous, and there is a wide variety of smaller fur bearing animals and game birds, grouse and ptarmigan. Recently Fred Mansell, of North Vancouver, killed a big grizzly which was 11 ft. 6 in. & 6 inches long from the tip of its nose to the base of the tail. A few years ago Mansell, who had been a guide since early manhood, bagged another grizzly, never less than 11 ft. and 6 inches long. These bears weighed about 1,000 lbs. each. Mansell declares that there are more bears within 200 miles of Vancouver than in the Canadian Pacific Railway is left remainder of the whole province. They are plentiful along the British Columbia coast islands, attracted by the salmon which ascend the rivers to spawn. The grizzly is a clever fisherman and wades into the streams to catch his salmon. The coast hunting grounds are reached by launch or steamer and are about 125 miles north of Vancouver. Spring hunting is good from April 15 to June 15. Fall hunting begins about Sept. 1 and lasts until the bears retire to their dens for the winter. The Caribou and Lillooet districts attract many hunters who secure splendid trophies. The Caribou is reached via Ashcroft, B. C., headquarters of E. S. Knight who has organized many hunting parties and supplied expert guides who know the wilderness well. Motor cars help the sportsmen on their way after the sportmen on their way after the behind. Seven and eight pound silver and rainbow trout are common in the Caribou, and Dolly Varden, char and lake trout run as high as 50 pounds.

Mansell, a companion and the guide's dog found the huge tracks of the 11 ft. 6 inch grizzly and followed the trail. "Suddenly," says Mansell, "I sighted the big fellow digging for dead salmon in the old river bed 200 yards distant. I knew Bob couldn't hold the dog, so we tied him up for fear he would spoil my shot. Alone I crawled ahead another 100 yards. The bear was up the valley and the wind was down so that he didn't see me. I took careful aim and pulled. Up he jumped, growling, and went down; then up again, put two more shots in at my first chance and there was my bear, as large as any two men would wish to handle."

TAX BILL STRIKES SNAG

Albany, Feb. 6.—Governor Smith's tax reduction program met a stone wall of opposition Tuesday, when real estate interests bitterly attacked it during the hearing conducted by the taxation committee of both houses of the legislature. Bills which had been introduced in the legislature last week to put into effect the provisions of the program drew prima facie only two organizations—the state tax commission itself, and the City Club of New York, represented by Ex-Senator Martin Saxe, former president of the tax commission.

There was no individual star for Company G. Palmer and Delaney were the chief scorers but their general work was no better than that of their teammates. The quintet played hard, close guarding preventing shots from near the net. Chadys made a double count for Company G. Score, Suffield 15, Company G 14. Van Buren went out on four personal fouls and Loushey replaced him. Richmyer made good one of his two attempts on the foul. Suffield went ahead when Richmyer scored from the field. Chadys made a point on Brown's foul. Palmer scored a double count for Company G. Score, Suffield 16, Company G 14.

Van Buren went out on four personal fouls and Loushey replaced him. Richmyer made good one of his two attempts on the foul. Suffield replaced Chadys at left forward for Palmer. Chadys made two fields in quick succession, the last one being long "luck" shot. Taylor added two more points. Score, Suffield 22, Company G 14. Palmer made a nice field basket and Richmyer balanced it with one. Company G was shooting wild, close guarding preventing shots from near the net. Chadys added another field basket and Darling made the last scores of the game with a basket from the court. The game ended soon after with Suffield at the long end of a 26 to 18 count.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY SUPPERS

Given Mrs. F. J. Joyce and Mrs. A. E. Pitney at Unadilla.

Unadilla, Feb. 6. — Among the many notable happenings of the past week in our little village, none were more enjoyed than two surprise birthday suppers, given by the older established Titmice club, of more than 21 years, to two of their members, Mrs. F. J. Joyce and Mrs. A. E. Pitney. Keen interest was manifested and the recipients were overjoyed with gifts and all surprises attendant on these gatherings, nine of which take place besides our regular get-together times throughout the year.

Sewing Through Lent.

At the meeting of the Ladies' Aid League on Monday, the members voted money for the purchase of material to be used in sewing through Lent. Garments will be made for the girls cared for at the Susan Penruome Cooper foundation, and for an auxiliary box. They also voted $125.50 to buy an electrolier as a memorial to departed members of the League.

New Lighting at St. Matthews'.

The vestry of St. Matthews Episcopal church are having the church newly wired for electricity and an entirely new system of lighting will be placed. In addition to the gift of the league, members of the vestry will present two electroliers.

Funds for Children's Farm.

Mrs. C. C. Flesch as committee farm at Cooperstown. The Woman's club has given $15, the Ladies' Aid League $5, and other organizations will have an opportunity to contribute to this worthy cause.

Sickness Prevalent.

Quite an amount of sickness is confining our citizens to their homes. Mumps, measles, colds and grip are the principal trouble.

Real Estate Activity.

Some real estate and business changes have recently been made by Fred E. Hunt. Ray Whitney of Susquehanna, Pa., has bought the sheep repairing business of Louis D'Imperio, possession to be given March 1. Mr. D'Imperio has been very successful in his business which he has conducted here for about 15 years. His future plans are not decided.

Mrs. Etta Rice, through the Hunt agency, has sold her farm of 17 acres to V. E. Miner of Union. This includes the large house and groceries. Her son, John Rice, who has been conducting affairs there, is ill in health and unable to continue.

Mrs. Paine Arrives.

Mrs. Harold Paine and two children of Delhi come to Unadilla today to join Mr. Paine, who is manager of the A. & P. store. They will reside in the block recently owned by J. H. Bedell. Mrs. Edward McFarland, also of Delhi, will accompany Mrs. Paine and be entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Hunt.

St. Valentine Dance.

The Catholic Social club will hold a benefit dance in Miford's hall St. Valentine's night, February 14. Robert D'Imperio, the four-year-old trap drummer will render several selections. He is worth hearing and if you have not heard him yet, this is your opportunity. Good music will be furnished and good refreshments served.

Supper Well Patronized.

Although the night was very stormy, the supper given by the ladies of the Presbyterian church was well patronized Tuesday evening.

Chase were in Oneonta to attend the funeral of their cousin, Edward Phillips. — At the annual church meeting held Monday evening, Mrs. Arthur Wilsey and Victor Cole were elected trustees. — Mrs. Kate Sculley left Wednesday for a few days' stay with a sister in South Valley.

MOTOR CRASH AT MILFORD

Nye's Bakery Truck and Touring Car of C. E. Osborn Collide.

Milford, Feb. 6. During the sleet storm here yesterday an automobile accident occurred on the Milford-Cooperstown road near the Martin & Maynard farm, when the delivery truck from Nye's bakery, Oneonta, and the touring car of C. E. Osborn collided. Mr. Osborn was returning from Cooperstown and the bakery car was on its way to Cooperstown, and due to the sleet which partially covered the road, which will be less than 10 more than 20 days after the date said bids are to be received.

All bids to be sealed, properly endorsed and delivered to Robert S. Welch, president of the village of Milford, on the 20th day of January, 1924.

Robert S. Welch, president, Trenton Walker, clerk.

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

Finding that 90 per cent of the violators of the laws in St. Louis are of foreign birth, a grand jury of that city recommends forfeiture of citizenship and deportation as punishment for this class of offenders. There is evident reason in it, inasmuch as those who come here because they do not like the laws of their own country, should at least expect to obey those of the nation which he evidently believed offers wider opportunities. If they do not like our laws, let them go back to try again those of their native land.

Fact is that there is no land on earth which to everybody will seem ideal in population, manners, customs, climate, productions, laws; but those who come here from abroad must put up with them, perforce with climate and productions, and not less with laws. They must take what they find and if they do not like it, the doors of escape are always open, the more because, not having been invited, they are merely guests by sufferance, and obligated to obey the rules set down for Uncle Sam's big household.

An English scientist reports a woman so sensitive to terrestrial vibrations of oscillations that she rivals the seismograph in any part of the world. If Great Britain can spare her, there is certainly field for her natural gifts in the United States. There must be politicians who would welcome a woman so adept in keeping her ear to the ground.

The Turkish dictator, Mustapha Kemal, should be popular at least with his own sex, however it may be with the sex feminines. As a recently issued order the stricken economy must hasten prevail in the matter of marriage, and a grooms may not present to his bride more than two cambrics and one set of furniture. The purpose is to make marriage popular; young Turks having hastened to marry because he could not, in accord with national usage, afford to buy a whole wardrobe of cambrics or two or three sets of furniture for the household. Also there is to be no piano, save perhaps a gramophone, and we are told to give up the day before the ceremony, but his fee must not be more than five dollars.

The evacuation of Vera Cruz by the DelaHarriss insurrectionists in Mexico appears to indicate that the revolution in the southern republic is weakening. Other towns have been taken by the forces of Obregon, and it is hoped that the end of the strife is at hand. However this may be, there is considerable doubt as to whether Obregon is able to man to deal with the Mexican outlaws.

While there have been scattered cases of influenza, or grip, this winter, there has nowhere in the country been an epidemic of it. In England, however, there has been a greater degree of suffering, and the severity of the winter has been blamed for it. Here, where there has been no severity of climatic conditions, conditions have been favorable; but last winter was severe, and still there was no general epidemic. One favorable, or at least gratifying fact, is that wherever there has been influenza this winter, notably in England, the cases have been mild, wherefrom it appears that the infection is losing its potency.

Miss Florence O'Tool, former resident of Ontario, where she perhaps is better known as Miss Florence Collings, has purchased the interest of Miss Berries in the Berries Beauty shop at Herkimer and will hereafter conduct the establishment under the name of the Florence Beauty parlor. Friends in Oneonta will wish her continued success.

THE GUIDE POST—
BY HENRY VANDYKETHE FRIEND OF OUR SICKLE.
No man caneth for my soul.—Psa. 102:8.

Caught up in the whirl of cosmic processes, swept along in the tumult of international affairs, a mere consciousness in the grip of the tornado, this is what you sometimes say to yourself:

"No man caneth for my soul!"

And this is what I say to you to-day to you, (and to myself too):

"Sons of Kosmopolis, crusade."

We live in an age so turbulent as ours.

Great world movements were stirring around him in that last century of the Christian era.

Persons and organizations were to be seen here and there.

No man knew what was coming.

Yet to everyone who drove near to the, the Oneonta, the most cheerful, the most popular, Jesus gave a lift. He was an ascetic and perfect as it could be. He had been absolutely calm, though you met the same, through his countenance, and every one who came near him.

"Behold the Son of man to Christ."

In every part of life for our service, in the same, the greatest, in the same, the best, by the people.

SUNDAY PRESS COMMENT

Correct Analysis.

Assistant Secretary of Labor Hesling analyzes civilization correctly when he says that it is based on private rights to property. Recognition of such right is essential to advance from savagery and its maintenance is essential to avoidance of Japan savagery.—[Washington Post.]

A Meaningful Dividend.

Although financial circles had anticipated that the United States Steel corporation would either raise its regular dividend rate or declare an extra dividend at the quarterly meeting of the directors on Tuesday last, an extra fifty cent dividend on the common stock exceeded expectations.—[Philadelphia Bulletin.]

Horse Extinction.

Prof. E. L. Furlong, of the University of California, is the latest forecaster of the end of the horse. Notwithstanding the statistical proof that the number of horses is increasing, the professor says the horse will be extinct in 100 years, or survive only as a curiosity maintained for zoological display.—[Kansas City Post.]

Release for Grimm.

Release of Lieutenant Hoover Grimm, whose daring though illegal and ineffectual attempt to arrest and split out of Germany and back to America one Bergdorff of odious fame, was made last summer, is creditable to the German government.

The news from Berlin is one of the interesting signs that the asperities growing out of the war between America and the late Imperial government of Germany are passing; that a more sympathetic understanding is being reached. Reactions in this country to Germany's action will be helpful to the German people.

At this time when America is intent upon relieving hungry German children, the intelligence that the Berlin government has been magnanimous toward young Grimm will not fail to be appreciated on this side of the Atlantic.—[Louisville Courier-Journal.]

British Prosperity Would Help Us.

Approximately forty per cent of all our foreign trade is with the United Kingdom and British possessions. The United Kingdom, itself, is the chief foreign market for American products, while Canada, divided from us only by an intangible line, ranks second. Much that the United Kingdom buys of us enters into its own exports, of course.—[Providence Journal.]

The Need of a Cool Head.

Senator Walsh of Montana played a useful part as chief inquisitor in the oil lease scandal. As a dramatic Democrat he is not so impressive. His declaration that Secretary Denby must resign or suffer the consequences, at the hands of the senate is too too much. Congress should keep its head on its shoulders. It has done well in giving to President Coolidge the power and the money necessary for a thorough legal inquiry into the scandal. It may be confident that all the facts will be brought out, all the interests of the government protected, all improprieties exposed and all the

Meanwhile no statesman will do himself a bit of good tearing his own temper into tatters.—[New York Herald-Tribune.]

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

WHAT IS BEHIND RHEUMATISM?

You may remember some years ago when all cases of rheumatism were said to be caused by getting a severe cold, or due to prolonged exposure to dampness and cold.

Then a little later it was supposed to be due to uric acid in the blood, and so huge and regular doses of gypsum salts were given. Lean meat was stressed for the formation of this uric acid, and so these sufferers were denied all meat.

Later on again the tonsils were blamed for the trouble, and tonsils were removed in wholesale manner.

Then later came the teeth, infection about the roots of which were blamed for causing rheumatism.

Then more recently, the sinuses—the little hollow spaces in the bones of the cheek and forehead which connect with the nose.

And then the intestine with unpoisoned waste products came into dispute as the cause.

And finally a germ was found by a celebrated Chicago physician and it was considered the cause.

Now, what about all this?

Well, it would appear that practically any one or all of these things might cause a definite attack of rheumatism, which, as you know, is an inflammation in the joints, just as you can have an inflammation anywhere else.

And so each one of these factors may enter in.

The cold and exposure lower your vitality, and the over-present germs do.

The accumulation of acids in the body may be the factor and as you see the big doses of salts cleared out considerable of that, but did not prevent the manufacture of more.

The removal of the tonsils certainly cleared up thousands of cases, as did liberating the extraction of teeth, and the cleansing up of the sinus from pyrexia.

The draining of the sinuses, the removal of growths in the nose has also done its share. The correction of constipation deserves its share of the credit also.

Why do I say all this?

Two main exposures to cold and dampness may apparently cause the attack of rheumatism, there is more place in the body, more throat, more sinuses of infection, that is to say, the throat, the nose, and especially the lungs, are not the same, through infection, and every one who comes near to the cold, damp, or water, loses his fighting ability, and is more prone to get the disease.

W. Morton Dartford will address the Oneonta History Club at its weekly luncheon this noon.

The members of the St. James Boys' Club were entertained at supper in the parish house last evening. The affair was keenly enjoyed by the lads.

F. H. Bouton of Syracuse, a former resident of Oneonta, is in the city buying cattle for the New York market. Mr. Bouton has loaded two cars during the past fortnight.

The annual meeting of the Oneonta Merchants' Association will be held Friday morning in the Chamber of Commerce offices. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected at this time.

A chimney fire called the fire department to 5 West Ann street at 12:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The fire, which caused only minor damage, was soon out. The house is owned by Mrs. George Krohn and occupied by Edward Reynolds.

Between 20 and 25 children were present at the children's hour at the Huntington Memorial Library yesterday afternoon. Miss Staples read "Hall Chick," "Hop O' My Thumb" and "The Hollow Tree" story, the children listening with eager attention and evident interest.

TO ESTABLISH GIRLS' SCHOOL

To Train in Missionary Work at Chenango Lake This Summer.

The Wyoming Conference Girls' Summer school, for training Methodist Episcopal young women of the Binghamton and Oneonta districts in missionary activities will be established at Chenango lake, six miles from Norwich, on Thursday, June 26, and continue for one week in the first session of an entirely new Wyoming Conference institution. The news was given to the 30 foreign missionary workers of the Oneonta district in session yesterday at Sidney.

Mrs. Joseph H. Treys of the Centenary Methodist Episcopal church, Binghamton, who discussed the plans for the school with the meeting yesterday, and who is the superintendent of young people's work, is expected to be in charge. Accommodations will be made for about 50 young women. The faculty will include a college graduate for recreation supervision and another for music, and there also will be missionaries direct from the field to lend the human touch to the program, and one teacher in all mission subjects. It is desired by this method to gain interest of young women in the mighty problems of the mission world and to enlist their sympathies and cooperation to the furtherance of the work. Heretofore the Wyoming young women in this state have attended similar schools each summer conducted by the Central New York conference, usually at Montour Falls.

"Re-enforcements," told of the plans for interesting the young women of the Oneonta district through a summer school, the first sessions of which will be held at Chenango lake, near Norwich. An old hotel and a number of scattered cottages will afford housing for the students.

Meetings.

The regular meeting L. C. B. A. in K. of P. hall at 8 o'clock.

The Knights of Columbus will hold one of their popular open house sessions this evening at the club rooms at 8 o'clock. Members are given the privilege of bringing one or more guests. Refreshments will be served after the entertainment.

Regular meeting of Oneonta circle, 248 P. H. C. in I. O. O. F. hall at 8 o'clock tonight. Initiation. Deputy John Eldred and wife, from Cooperstown, will be present.

Meetings Postponed.

There will be no meeting of the Business Men's Athletic class this evening.

Real Estate Sale.

The executors of the will of Martha Niles deceased, will sell at public auction, February 11, 1924, at ten o'clock a.m. at the Hotel Augusta in Cobleskill, N. Y., two family dwelling houses situated on North Grand street in Cobleskill, N. Y. and six acres of land, more or less, on the same street to settle the estate.

The six acres is available for building lot purposes and will be exposed for sale as one parcel and in four parcels, and will be struck off to the highest bidder who will pay the highest sum therefor, either as one parcel or in four parcels.

"OLD" SCOTCH CRIES AGAIN

Members of Oneonta Company keep the "Scotch Cries" in character during nights at High School and Evening.

"The Cotter's Saturday Night," a sketch which is general follows the lines of the famous poem by Robert Burns, and which was presented at the Academy street school auditorium by a talented company last evening was not entertainment merely. It was inspiration also and instruction and to the considerable number of Scotch born who were present it was the bringing back of "old, forgotten things" if not of "battle lines ago." But whether of race or clan which wove the tartan, or which claimed no kinship with those who flaunted their distinctive plaid, last evening was a "night" which by everybody present will long be a delightful memory.

In the sketch last night the part of Margaret Anderson, the cotter's wife, was admirably taken by Edith MacGregor, that of the cotter himself by Edward McHugh, those of Jeanie and Jamie, the cotter's son and daughter, out at service and according to custom home for Saturday night, by Mary Mack and John E. Dunleavy. With them were Leone Adams as the laird's son and William Wilson as Thammie, a neighbor, and as is the national custom to great extent even now, the evening was spent in singing the familiar songs and in pleasant interludes the telling of stories and the dancing, with a vigor and abandon true to life, of the famous Scotch reel. There was not a dull minute in the evening for the audience, nor apparently for the actors.

As for the singers, all were artists of genuine ability alike in spoken and singing parts, and exemplified in full degree the spirit of the race. Among the numerous songs given were "My Laddies," "Ye Banks and Braes," "Scots Who Hae," with its ringing patriotic fervor, the pathetic "Loch Lomond," and the more sentimental "Annie Laurie" and "Bonnie Wee Thing." There were also "A Man's a Man for a' That" and a fine rendition of "The Lord is My Shepherd," sung to a familiar tune to this day in Scotch churches. Finally, as a gracious afterpiece, when the printed program was completed, the entire company sang "Should Auld Acquaintance Be Forgot," and everybody went home well satisfied. Certainly the company of last night will not be forgot; and it will be welcomed should they come again to this city.

SCOUT COUNCIL CHARTERED

Executive Committee Acts on Selection of Executive — Oneonta Named Headquarters.

Practically a full representation of the executive committee of the Oneonta Council of Boy Scouts attended an enthusiastic noonday meeting of the committee at Kilbourn's restaurant yesterday, at which, after the needs of the inner man had been amply supplied, several important items of business were submitted for consideration.

The charter from the national organization has arrived. The council, after weeks of effort on the part of those interested in its formation, is now an established fact. And it was chiefly to consider the matter of selecting a Scout Executive that the meeting of yesterday was called. The choice of a man to fill this important position was finally left to a representative committee, composed of E. Vedder, Jr. of Schoharie, M. G. Keenan of Oneonta and Lester Berger of Richmondtown, with Judge Dow Beckman of Middleburgh acting in an advisory capacity. Inasmuch as the names of several candidates are already in the hands of the committee, the definite selection of an executive will doubtless be made within a reasonably short time.

The committee definitely selected Oneonta as the headquarters for the executive, and Oneonta lake as the site for the Council camp. The actual location of the camp, its arrangement, and other details, were left to the camp committee of which M. E. Lippitt of Cooperstown is chairman.

To date everything connected with the new council has moved smoothly, and everyone is working whole-heartedly for its success. With the selection of a Scout Executive at an early date definite results may speedily be expected.

AT ELM PARK CHURCH

Dr. J. W. Flynn Speaks at Family Social Night Meeting.

The family social night at Elm Park church last evening was a decided success, nearly 150 persons being present. Music was furnished by an orchestra of six pieces. There were also vocal selections by the Misses Edith Strait, Erma Bradley, Lois Dodge and Clayton VanTassel and Clarence Strait. B. B. St. John, vice president of the Brotherhood class, under whose auspices the event was given, presided.

The pastor, Rev. Wilbur C. Dodge, offered prayer and introduced the speaker, Dr. John W. Flynn of the First Methodist church, who gave, by special request, a tribute to the late Ex-President Wilson. The address was a beautiful tribute to the nation's war president and created a profound appreciation for his noble life and services and was enjoyed by the large and attentive audience.

After refreshments, which were served by the men of the class, the remainder of the evening was spent in conversation and in playing games which have recently been installed. It was without question one of the best social times ever held in the church and attended by the large and attentive audience.

WELLS MEMORIAL SERVICE

Rev. S. A. Judge Preys His Tribute to Late Mr. McHugh on Anniversary of His Death.

High tribute to the memory of the American military forces was paid by Rev. S. A. Judge in an eloquent address at impressive memorial services held at the Community house last evening by Oneonta post of the American Legion. Captain Judge was with the American Expeditionary forces in Italy during the World war and his remarks were not only the tribute of a private citizen, but also of one who had fought a good fight under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson.

Captain Judge spoke in part as follows:

A great American has passed on to rest. Our hearts are sorrowing, and we are burdened with the tragedy. Not only the fact of Woodrow Wilson's death, but the long trail of suffering through which he walked with courage unflinching.

"Aside from politics or religion we service men regard Woodrow Wilson as one of us in a sense of comradeship. We received our discharge, and came home, to work if we were well, or to get better if we were ill. Mr. Wilson contended with the shock of war for ten years. In 1914 he saw the clouds forming, and he was anxious to keep us out of the trouble when he laid down his official title. He could not lay aside his burden. He was already stricken with the sickness which ended in his call West.

"Some of us could not accept his political program for the future of the nation, but all of us can accept his high ideals, but he tried to live them. Death cannot rob him of fame, and his long illness adds but another and brilliant chapter to a great character."

The service, which was well attended by members of the Legion, of the Legion auxiliary and by ex-service men, was in charge of Dr. Lyman S. DeLamater, commander of Oneonta post. Following the singing of America by the assembly, Commander DeLamater explained the nature of the meeting and Captain Judge offered prayer. Mrs. Blanche Rowland sang "Lead, Kindly Light" and led the audience in singing "Abide With Me." The meeting closed with the sounding of "Taps" by the post bugler.

CONTROL OF RATES REJECTED

Cities Not Likely to Be Given Power Over Gas and Electric Rates.

Oneonta will not be given control of its gas and electric rates, in all probability because the legislative committee of the state conference of mayors at a meeting Monday disapproved the Lacey bill giving local authorities jurisdiction over gas and electric rates because of its mandatory character.

Similar action was taken on the Lacey bill prohibiting state troops from entering a city unless summoned by the local council, the conference taking the view that such a law might prove a serious restriction in case of emergency. Support was given the Hickley bill under which Buffalo would be empowered to tax the Donner Steel and American Railroads claims of federal ownership of the property sought to be taxed.

The conference also went on record as opposing the "trifecta" under which cities, towns and villages would be empowered to enact prohibition enforcement ordinances. The mayors took the stand that cities now have adequate power.

Approval was given the bill calling for statewide licensing of all motor vehicle operators, but the conference went on record in opposition to a tax on gasoline because no provision is made for any of the revenue thus derived going to the municipalities. Approval also was given the proposal to make cities a party in all proceedings involving public utility rates.

A questionnaire showed 19 cities, including Buffalo, opposed to federal tax on municipal securities. Seven cities were reported as favoring it.

"I'll give you a tip, only I've nothing but a $10 bill."

"Oh, that'll be enough, sir." —[Boston Transcript]

Head waiter (to waiter): "The customers in the corner has ordered fresh made coffee. Just keep him waiting for ten minutes." —[Copenhagen Klode-Hans]

"Mother, isn't auntie just like a bulldog?" "Hush! hush! Don't talk so loud!" "Why? Would the bulldog be mad?" —[Stockholm Kasper]
